

Do You Drive a Car?

Eyestrain may very easily be aggravated by driving a car. The attempt to focus the eyes on objects which you are passing rapidly irritates the already strained eyes.

Don't give up the car—but have your eyes attended to.

Begin by letting us examine them to find out what causes the strain. Good sight is too valuable for your success and comfort to run the slightest risk of impairing it.

Our equipment, together with our skill and experience, enables us to determine exactly the condition and needs of your eyes.

"Seven Days' Leave."

Re-written and thoroughly Americanized, "Seven Days' Leave," the ponderous London military spectacle, will play an engagement Friday, October 31st, at the Keith theatre. Oct. the management will offer for public approval what is supposed to be one of the greatest melodramas ever seen on the American stage, dealing as it does with the war which is just closed, it shows many of the trials and tribulations of which "our boys" experienced while "over there."

"Seven Days' Leave" is the romantic story of a young Irish-American officer's vacation passed in England, attempts of German spies to steal the plans of a submarine destroyer that he has invented set the action in motion and it sweeps on in tense rapidity until the climax is reached on the gun deck of an American cruiser whose roaring ordnance blows a Hun U-boat out of the water.

Pearson being first and completing the flying time in ten hours less than Maynard. Maynard lost one penalty of eighteen hours when he changed engines at Wahoo, Neb.

After the Moulting EGGS

REMEMBER, going through the moult is like going through a long spell of sickness. To force out the old quills and grow new feathers saps a hen's vitality.

If you expect your hens to be fall producers and winter layers, then feed them Poultry Pan-a-ce-a during and after the moult.

Dr. Hess Poultry Pan-a-ce-a will start your pullets and moulted hens to laying

It contains Tonics that put your moulted hens in fine condition—Tonics that tone up the dormant egg organs—Iron that gives a moulted, run-down hen rich, red blood and a red comb. It contains internal antiseptics that destroy disease germs that may be lurking in the system. No disease where Pan-a-ce-a is fed. It pays to feed Pan-a-ce-a regularly.

It brings back the singing—it brings back the scratching—it brings back the cackle. That's when you get eggs; and it's eggs you want—fall eggs, winter eggs—when eggs are eggs.

REXALL DRUG STORE.

Tell us how many hens you have. We'll tell you how much Pan-a-ce-a to buy.

About the High Cost of Living.

Our Family Bulletin, an attractive paper published under the auspices of the Union Pacific Family League, publishes the following:

A clothier in Omaha had two all-wool suits bought on a lower market and it seems he was not able to sell them at $55 each, so he placed them in the window marked down to $45. Then reduced them to $35 each. Two men looked them over, and, although they fitted, would not buy them, so they remained on hand. The merchant became desperate in his efforts to dispose of them and finally a happy thought struck him and he placed one in each window with placards reading "Latest arrival in Fall Styles—all wool, $75 each." Now, whether you believe it or not, the same two men who refused to buy these suits at $35, looked them over and paid the seventy-five dollars and apparently went away, satisfied.

Here's another one: A railroad man walked into a haberdashers and asked for silk socks. Was shown a 75 cent pair but wanted a better grade of goods. After looking at the various grades up to two-fifty a pair, the highest-priced in the store, he said to the proprietor, who was waiting on him, "Are those the best you have?" After a little search, the proprietor, not to be outdone, found a pair for four dollars and the man paid the money and walked out with one of the two-dollar pair of socks. After he was gone the proprietor remarked: "That was highway robbery but someone was going to get his money and thought I might as well have it as anyone."

Grecian Marriage-Gesture.

There are two noted statues of the Venus Genetrix in which the Grecian marriage-gesture is illustrated—one a Roman copy of a Greek original held to represent a celebrated type by Alcameses, in the Louvre, Paris. The goddess is clad in a very light Ionian tunic, and with raised right arm lifts her himation from behind toward her head, forming the Greek gesture symbol of marriage. The left hand extends the apple.

The other, an antique marble statue, in the Vatican museum, is held to be an excellent copy of the bronze cult-statue by Arcesilaus which stood in the temple of Venus of the Forum Julium. The figure is fully draped in very thin, clinging drapery; she extends the apple with her left hand, and with the right raises her mantle over the shoulder toward the head—the symbolical marriage-gesture.

Japanese "Maru."

The word "maru" attached to the name of every merchant ship and commonly accepted as meaning "ship" in reality has no known meaning. According to a Japanese authority the word is the survival of a custom centuries old. There are two opinions as to how the custom started. The story, the more likely to be the true one, is that in ancient times the Japanese attached "maru" to the name of anything precious or highly prized, as a sword or a baby. It was first applied to a ship's name about 2,000 years ago, when the Empress Jingo sent an expedition to Korea. She added the word to the name of the ship that transported the troops to Korea. Ever since then "maru" has been associated with the name of a steamship or sailing vessel. It is never used with the name of a warship.
